

MINOR IN DANCE

The minor in Dance trains students with a passion for dance to tell their own stories through movement. With an emphasis on technique, our curriculum simultaneously develops the physical strength of our dancers while building their confidence as choreographers. Through our global, interdisciplinary community located in the heart of Washington, D.C., the program works with national and internationally known guest artists. Our flexible minor provides students with an expansive range of courses that support foundational and advanced study in both theory and practice. In addition to developing a stronger understanding of dance, the collaborative skills this minor develops are a valuable asset that can be effectively applied in any other team-based career.
